Greetings!

I recently read of the NRC's intention of selling radioactive metals to the scrap metal industry. This does not sound like a sound idea, a good idea. It sounds more like a short-term view to both get rid of unwanted contaminates and at the same time make money. Hopefully, there are those high up in the NRC or those who oversee the NRC who have a more sane outlook, a long-range, for-the-good-of-all perspective. At the very least, this is an issue that needs far broader public awareness and input.

I want my vote noted as being totally against the NRC proposal. I would like to hear back from the NRC regarding it's intent.

Thank Mary Morris Knepp
