Gentlemen:

I have recently been horrified to learn that radio-active materials left over from other nuclear production may soon be recycled into all sorts of consumer products. And, in addition, there will not even be a warning to consumers that their purchases will contain these materials.

This is outrageous; and all such plans should be stopped immediately.

The nuclear industry has let a genie out of the bottle and now is trying to cover its tracks, recoup its losses by pretending its products and by products are not harmful.

It is your job to regulate in order protect people, not the industry. Please respond
