Subject: nuclear waste

Some things are a no-brainer. Using nuclear energy and storing nuclear waste are the before and after of Pinocchio. we've had our "Pleasure Island." It is time to return to real human earthy life. Thanks but no thanks for nukes. I surely do not discount the possibility, beyond current inquiry that, "one day" fission will work. Unlike Pinocchio we do not have the panache to either remove the problem or ourselves from it. Leaving it for someone else is not an option. Japan et al are in our gut and we have to deal with it. We must remove casks from water flows et al. We must replace casks with the best containment possible. And, sine qua non, we must work to eliminate dependency upon and production of nuclear power and hasten solar-wind-water-waste renewables. You have the responsibility to set the tone for the future and the time is now---even if you know that there is an unfriendly and even ridiculous and disastrous political climate.

Our love for your journey, David P. Ransom 05492
