Julie,

Okay, thanks. Let us know what will work for you.

Also, as a reminder (and possibly to help make coordination easier), I think the only item that we were going to discuss is if you had enough information in NRC's previous biological assessment and related correspondence to make a determination on Atlantic sturgeon.

If you do have enough information, you could let us know via email, we can skip the call, and then NRC will request to reinitiate consultation with a letter. If you don't have enough information, then a phone call would be helpful so that we can be sure to include any additional info you need when we send the reinitiation request.

Thanks!

Hi -

Sorry for not getting back to you sooner - I was out at the end of last week. Unfortunately tomorrow won't work for us -- I am going to take a look at people's schedules and will get back to you with some times that will work for us!

Thanks,

Julie

Hi Julie,

I just wanted to follow up again to see if a short call tomorrow to discuss Indian Point at 2pm will fit in your schedule. Thanks!

Hi Julie,

I spoke with my contact at Salem, and he is going to be out of the office next week, so I am still trying to figure out a time that will work for all parties to discuss the draft Biological Opinion.

For Indian Point, can we plan to have a call on Tuesday Feb 28 at 2pm?

From my notes, we had planned to talk about whether NMFS would need any additional or updated information on the Atlantic sturgeon when we send a letter to initiate consultation based on the recent listing of the species. I think that was the only action item, so let me know if there was anything else I missed.

Thanks!

Briana
