Dear Sirs, Mesdammes,

Homo sapiens sapiens (man who think he thinks, my translation) has been around for only 90,000 to 110,000 years. HSS is you baby! No one can build a "safe" or "hardened" site for nuclear waste which will still be around and just as deadly for another 100,000 years. It raises questions about the average length of political systems, religious concepts, legends. Who is going to be around 100,000 years from now to monitor and manage such sites, or are you counting on the extermination of the human race a little sooner? Or, are you imbeciles? Or are you religious fanatics? Who the hell do you think you are to make such decisions for life (human and non-human) on this planet?
