The NRC does not claim an exemption from FISMA.

3. The classified annex for NRC's report submitted under Section 3554(c) for FY 2015, or your attestation that no classified annex to the report exists or was created.

The NRC attests that no classified annex to the report exists or was created.

4. The report of the results of each independent evaluation of information security program as required under Section 3555 for FY 2015.

ANSWER

See: PUBLIC ENCL 6 OIG Evaluation.pdf.

5. The report of the results of each independent evaluation of an information security program involving a national security system or a classified system, as required under Section 3555 for FY 2015, or your attestation that NRC does not have or control any national security systems or classified systems.

ANSWER

The 2015 Office of the Inspector General (OIG) FISMA audit did not include an evaluation of a national security system, the classified cybersecurity program, or any classified system. I have since designated the OIG as the evaluator of the NRC's national security systems. The OIG will conduct the evaluation as soon as practical. Separately, the OIG is now completing, and will soon deliver to Congress, its FY 2016 review of covered systems under Section 406 of the Cybersecurity Act of 2015, which includes national security systems.

6. The report of the results of each penetration test and red team exercise conducted against NRC's information or information systems from FY 2015 to present, or your attestation that no such test or exercise was completed.

ANSWER

No such certifications currently exist or are expected in the future.

8. A list of major incidents, as identified in FISMA, at NRC—including any of its subordinate offices, components, and agencies—from October 30, 2015, to the date of your response, or your attestation that no major incidents occurred at NRC during that period.

ANSWER

The NRC attests that no major incidents have occurred at the agency during the period identified.
