MEMORANDUM AND ORDER

Today we address Intervenors' appeal of a Board ruling¹ that rejected seven late-filed contentions, and treat it as a petition for interlocutory review.² For the reasons set forth below, because Intervenors' petition has demonstrated no grounds for interlocutory review, their appeal must await the final merits decision in this matter.³

² Notice of Appeal (Feb. 9, 2010); Brief in Support of Intervenors' Appeal of Atomic Safety and Licensing Board's Order of January 29, 2010 (Feb. 9, 2010) (Intervenors' Appeal) (non-public). Intervenors are the Sustainable Energy and Economic Development (SEED) Coalition, the South Texas Association for Responsible Energy, and Public Citizen.

³ The NRC Staff's appeal of the Board's ruling in LBP-10-2, concerning an access determination involving a document containing sensitive unclassified non-safeguards information (SUNSI), will be addressed in a separate memorandum and order.

I. BACKGROUND

This matter involves the combined license (COL) application of South Texas Project

Nuclear Operating Company (STPNOC) to construct and operate two new units on its South

Texas site, located in Matagorda County, Texas. Following publication of a notice of hearing and opportunity to petition for leave to intervene on STPNOC's COL application,⁴ Intervenors filed a timely petition to intervene and request for hearing on STPNOC's COL application, submitting twenty-eight proposed contentions.⁵ The Board found that Intervenors had demonstrated standing and had submitted five admissible contentions. Accordingly, they were admitted as parties to the proceeding.⁶

Shortly after briefing was completed, but before the Board ruled on the intervention petition, STPNOC notified the Board that it had submitted to the Staff, as a supplement to the COL application, a "Mitigative Strategies Report" containing a description and plan for implementation of mitigative strategies in accordance with 10 C.F.R. §§ 50.54(hh)(2) and 52.80(d).⁷ At STPNOC's request, the Staff has withheld the Mitigative Strategies Report from

In accordance with the terms of a protective order issued by the Board, Intervenors submitted seven new contentions challenging the completeness of the information contained in the Mitigative Strategies Report.⁹ After a prehearing conference on the new contentions, portions of which were closed to the public under the protective order, the Board ruled that all seven new contentions were inadmissible.¹⁰

Intervenors thereafter filed the instant appeal challenging the Board's rulings on three of those contentions – Contentions MS-1, MS-3, and MS-6.¹¹ STPNOC and the NRC Staff oppose the appeal.¹² As discussed below, Intervenors' appeal is premature.

Strategies Report Cover Letter). One contention in the initial petition asserted that the application was deficient and incomplete for failing to include the information required by sections 50.54(hh)(2) and 52.80(d), which concern strategies for mitigating loss of large areas of the plant in the event of explosions or fire. The Board found that this contention was inadmissible on the grounds that it became moot with STPNOC's submission of the Mitigative Strategies Report. See LBP-09-21, 70 NRC __ (slip op. at 11).

II. DISCUSSION

Section 2.311 of our rules of practice permits an appeal as of right from a board's ruling on an intervention petition in two limited circumstances: (1) upon the denial of a petition to intervene and/or request for hearing, on the question as to whether it should have been granted; or (2) upon the granting of a petition to intervene and/or request for hearing, on the question as to whether it should have been wholly denied.¹³ Other requests for review generally are governed by section 2.341, which provides for interlocutory review, at our discretion, only upon a showing that the issue for which interlocutory review is sought:

- (i) Threatens the party adversely affected by it with immediate and serious irreparable impact which, as a practical matter, could not be alleviated through a petition for review of the presiding officer's final decision; or
- (ii) Affects the basic structure of the proceeding in a pervasive or unusual manner.¹⁴ That interlocutory review only will be granted under extraordinary circumstances reflects our disfavor of piecemeal appeals during ongoing licensing board proceedings.¹⁵

Appeal of the ASLB's Order of January 29, 2010 (Feb. 24, 2010) (non-public) (Intervenors' Reply).

¹³ See 10 C.F.R. § 2.311(c), (d)(1). An appeal of an order selecting a hearing procedure also is governed by section 2.311, "on the question as to whether the selection of the particular hearing procedures was in clear contravention of the criteria set forth in § 2.310." 10 C.F.R. § 2.311(e). The Board's selection of a hearing procedure is not at issue here.

¹⁴ 10 C.F.R. § 2.341(a)(1), (f)(2). See also CLI-09-18, 70 NRC __ (Sept. 23, 2009) (slip op. at 4-5) (explaining in this proceeding that "challenges to Board rulings on late-filed contentions normally fall under our rules for interlocutory review").

¹⁵ See, e.g., Crow Butte Resources, Inc. (In Situ Leach Facility, Crawford, Nebraska), CLI-09-9, 69 NRC 331, 365 & n.178 (2009); Entergy Nuclear Operations, Inc. (Indian Point, Units 2 and 3), CLI-09-6, 69 NRC 128, 137 (2009).

Arguing that they are entitled to an appeal as of right, Intervenors characterize their new contentions as "not inherently linked to the[ir] Petition for Intervention." In Intervenors' view, the Board treated these contentions as "a separate stand-alone petition for intervention and request for hearing," and thus "specified that the decision was subject to appeal under 10 C.F.R. § 2.311." Intervenors assert that an appeal under section 2.311 is appropriate because "there are no fires and explosions contentions now pending before the Board." ¹⁸

Intervenors' appeal does not fall within the circumstances permitted for appeals as of right. The Board has granted their petition to intervene with five contentions admitted for hearing; the question on appeal is whether the Board erred in rejecting three of Intervenors' newly-proffered contentions. Under longstanding Commission precedent, once a petition to intervene and request for hearing has been granted and contentions are admitted for hearing, appeals of Board rulings on new or amended contentions are treated under section 2.341(f)(2), regardless of the subject matter of those contentions. Contrary to Intervenors' assertions, it would be illogical to construe Intervenors' new contentions as a stand-alone intervention petition when they already have intervened and a contested hearing has been granted. Intervenors' appeal is properly treated as a petition for interlocutory review under section 2.341(f)(2).

To be sure, the Board correctly stated that its ruling was subject to appeal under 10 C.F.R. § 2.311, consistent with our ruling in CLI-09-18.²⁰ In CLI-09-18, we held that, in the unusual circumstances presented by this case, no appeal lay under section 2.311 until the Board acted on all contentions then pending – which included those raised in Intervenors' intervention petition and the seven new contentions that were filed in advance of the Board's ruling on the intervention petition.²¹ The Board's decision in LBP-10-2 ruled on the last of these pending contentions. As such, the decision is subject to appeal under section 2.311. But because Intervenors' intervention petition was granted, their contention admissibility appeal does not fall into either of the circumstances envisioned by section 2.311.

We decline to exercise our discretion to grant interlocutory review of the Board's rulings on the admissibility of Contentions MS-1, MS-3, and MS-6. Intervenors have not addressed either of the section 2.341(f)(2) factors to show that interlocutory review is warranted. In any event, it does not appear that a convincing case could be made for interlocutory review. The focus of Intervenors' appeal is its assertion that the Board erred in finding these contentions to be inadmissible. But as we recently reiterated in the Crow Butte license renewal proceeding, "the rejection or admission of a contention, where the Petitioner has been admitted as a party and has other contentions pending, neither constitutes serious and irreparable impact, nor affects the basic structure of the proceeding in a pervasive and unusual manner." Intervenors will have the opportunity to file a petition for review of the Board's contention admissibility rulings following the issuance of the Board's final dispositive decision in this matter.²³ At this time, their appeal is not ripe.

III. CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth above, we deny Intervenors' request for interlocutory review without prejudice to their ability to file a petition for review of the Board's contention admissibility rulings following the issuance of the Board's final dispositive decision in this matter.
